

Light and sound

June 27th, 2017

|

Paula Burch-Celentano pburch@tulane.edu

View PDF

Dylan Lawrence, a graduate student in biomedical engineering, adjusts a preclinical, high resolution ultrasound system modified to generate photoacoustic images of oxygen saturation of the placenta. His research, in the laboratory of Dr. Carolyn Bayer, seeks to improve the diagnoses and treatment of preeclampsia.