SSE Launches New BS in Computer Science and Minor in AI

July 11th, 2025
|
Matthew Deinhardt

View PDF

After a long hiatus following Hurricane Katrina, the Tulane School of Science and Engineering is proud to reintroduce a standalone Bachelor of Science in Computer Science, alongside a new minor in Artificial Intelligence. While the coordinate major in Computer Science has provided students with strong interdisciplinary training for years, the new BS program offers a more focused and rigorous pathway for students pursuing careers in computing, software engineering, and AI. This marks an exciting new chapter for computer science education at Tulane.